

[re]branding
homelessness:

The nomads_{of the} city

people
forgotten
spaces

The homeless are forgotten in our cities. They have been rejected by society and have become neo-nomads within the city.

We wish to question who the real tourists of the city are. We welcome tourists into the city, but the nomadic wanderers of the city are shunned.

design considerations and concept sketches

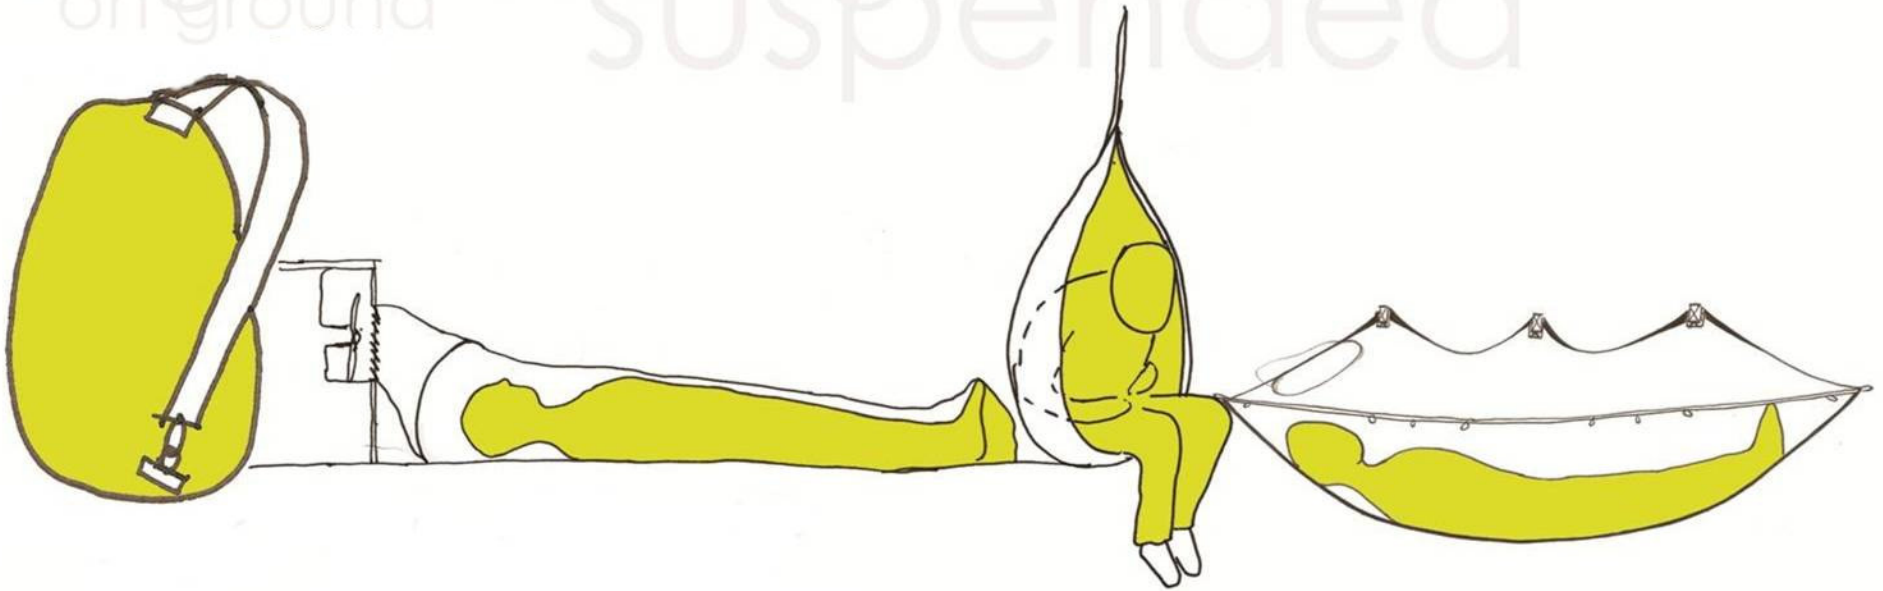

We wish to accommodate them with the same positivity as tourists. We have approached this as a non-permanent shelter to accommodate a nomadic lifestyle.

typologies

bag
on ground

seating

suspended

By not suggesting permanent structures, we wish to provide shelter for a period of homelessness, but encourage the improvement of this situation.

technical

